- Take payments, track orders and automate repeated tasks

Who it is for

Small business owners, shop managers, freelancers and students starting an online business.

Contents

1	Know your customer and your offer
2	Build your online presence
3	Create content that sells
4	Take orders and payments simply
5	Automate the routine work
6	Measure and improve

Chapter 1

Know your customer and your offer

Before posting anything, be clear about who you sell to and what you promise them. A clear offer makes every later step easier.

- Write your offer in one sentence: who it is for, what problem it solves, and why you.
- Describe your ideal customer: age group, location, what they buy now, and where they spend time online.
- List your three best-selling products or services and their prices.
- Ask five existing customers why they chose you, and note their exact words.

> Quick win: Put your one-sentence offer at the top of every profile and price list.

Chapter 2

Build your online presence

Customers check you out before they buy. A complete, consistent profile builds trust within seconds.

- Use the same business name, logo and phone number on Telegram, Facebook and Instagram.
- Write a short profile: what you sell, where you are, opening hours and how to order.
- Create a Telegram channel for announcements and a pinned message with your price list.
- Reply to messages quickly and politely. Tell customers when they can expect an answer.

> Quick win: Pin one message with your products, prices and ordering steps.

Chapter 3

Create content that sells

Good content helps first and sells second. A simple weekly rhythm keeps you consistent without burning out.

- Follow a 3-1-1 rhythm each week: three helpful posts, one customer proof post, one clear offer.
- Use real, bright photos of your products and write captions in Amharic and English.
- End every post with one clear next step, such as "Message us to order".
- Plan two weeks of posts in a sheet: date, topic, photo, caption.

> Quick win: Prepare five product photos and write their captions this week.

Chapter 4

Take orders and payments simply

Every extra step loses customers. Make ordering and paying as short as possible, and confirm every order quickly.

- Offer one order channel customers already use, such as a Telegram bot or a Mini App.
- Write clear payment instructions: Telebirr number or bank account, amount and reference.
- Ask customers to send a receipt screenshot, and check the amount and reference before delivering.
- Record every order in one sheet: order number, customer, items, amount, status.

> Quick win: Save your payment instructions as a ready-to-send message.

Chapter 5

Automate the routine work

Automation means a tool does repeated tasks for you. Start with one small task and add more only when it works.

- Good first tasks: order confirmations, payment reminders, thank-you messages and a daily summary.
- Simple tools are enough: Google Sheets for records and a workflow tool such as n8n to connect your apps.
- Keep a person in the loop for anything involving money or unusual cases.
- Never share passwords, bot tokens or API keys in screenshots, chats or public files.

> Quick win: Automate one message, the order confirmation, before anything else.

Chapter 6

Measure and improve

You cannot improve what you do not measure. Fifteen minutes each week is enough.

- Count each week: messages received, orders, total sales and returning customers.
- Note which posts brought the most messages and make more like them.
- Change one thing at a time, such as the photo, the price or the call to action, and compare.
- Ask customers for feedback after delivery and keep the best comments.

> Quick win: Block the same 15 minutes every week for your numbers.
